BRUNSWICK, Ga., Feb. 6 (AP)—A young shipyard worker was held in Tatum state prison tonight for the suffocation slaying of two and a half-year-old Bettie Lou Frazier whose partly-clad body was found floating in a swamp near her home here yesterday.

Maj. C. A. Williams, chief of the Georgia state patrol, announced at Atlanta that the man, booked as Richard M. Bailey, 25, formerly of Pineville, W. Va., had orally admitted that he smothered the child Saturday afternoon.

Williams said Bailey confessed to Cpl. J. W. Beasley of the patrol and other officers at Brunswick last night but the news had been withheld until he could be removed to Tatum because of high feeling in the Brunswick area.

Bailey has been working in the shipyards at Brunswick for about two years, Williams said. He lives with his parents about 300 yards from the Frazier home.

"He said that he saw the little girl playing in the woods back of her home Saturday afternoon and went out and started talking to her. Then, he said, he put her head under his arm and pressed her nose against his body until she was limp. He said he threw her body into the swamp where it was found."

"He said he didn't know why he did it. He denied that he had attempted to rape the child."

Earlier, Corner J. D. Baldwin announced that a medical examiner reported the child had been smothered to death and that there were indications of an unsuccessful attempt to ravish her.

wrote to Jesse Jones, former RFC head, and other officials recommending Goldberg's firm.

The name of Baruch, financier and White House adviser, also was used by an official of the firm in efforts to promote business, but the official testified today that he personally had received no authorization from Baruch for such use.

Connally interrupted the testimony at one point to declare:

"I want the committee to find out the facts regarding Mr. Goldberg or any other person. I don't want any suggestion of an effort to smear Mr. Bernard Baruch or Mr. Swope because of any letter they might have written to Jesse Jones or anybody else."

Jones, asked for his reaction to the current hearings, told a reporter he had "no comment."

During today's session, Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) appeared to demand that the government freeze all its surplus property pending adoption of a system of sales under "the merciless spotlight of publicity."

Li. Col. J. C. Golden Is Home for 30 Days

Li. Col. John C. Golden, battalion commander in the Eightieth Division of General George Patton's Third Army, has arrived from the European war theater to spend thirty days with his wife, Mrs. Helen Golden, and daughter, Jo Ann, Route 2, Baltimore pike.

Li. Col. Golden was overseas seven and a half months and took command in the lower part of Normandy after the break-through at St. Lo last summer. His outfit was in Germany at the time he was given thirty days' leave.

He will report to Fort George G. Meade, Md., on March 8.

conventional planes of equal power; improved longitudinal control and maneuverability; improved visibility for shooting the nose-mounted guns; less noise in the cockpit and less fire danger to the pilot; better handling at high speeds since elevators bite cleanly into the wind instead of into the wake of the wings. Another new wrinkle is a device which enables the pilot to dump the propeller in emergencies so he won't run the risk of being struck by its blades as he jumps.

Technically speaking the XP-55 (X for experimental, P for pursuit) is a low-wing, all-metal pusher type. It is to be known as the Curtiss-Wright "Ascender."

Details of how fast the plane will climb and how fast and how high it flies are among performance figures still restricted by the army.

Political differences are hinted in the stories of some travelers from Berlin that Himmler and Volksturm leaders are to direct the defense of Berlin without army participation.

With artillery fire from the front already faintly audible under favorable conditions, with Polish and Russian prisoners digging trenches in the city and thousands of other foreign workers being directed in the building of fortifications toward the Oder in plain view of refugees pouring in from the east, an intense personal and political crisis has developed which can take any turn any day, travelers say.

Another House bill passed would re-define the term "dependent child" under the public welfare code to mean "a needy child under the age of eighteen years."

The present law lists sixteen as the age limit for children not attending school and eighteen for those in school.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed fifteen measures, all but two of them local.

Mining Property Dispute Settled Out of Court

Terms Are Not Disclosed Pending Submission of Contract

A compromise settlement of injunction proceedings filed against the Union Mining Company by the three purchasers of the firm's Mt. Savage property was reported yesterday and the hearing scheduled to be resumed today in circuit court was cancelled.

Terms of the agreement were not revealed pending submission of the contract and other documents to Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper today.

The new owners, Andrew J. Rost, Pittsburgh, and Samuel Frazee and Ralph Fearer, Uniontown, Pa., bought the property for $52,200 at public auction on December 21 and filed a petition for an injunction, charging some of the equipment they believed included in the sale was being removed by the company.

Rost, Frazee and Fearer are represented in the litigation by Thomas Lohr Richards, Horace P. Whitworth, this city; Leland L. Walker, Somerset, Pa., and Wilbur Galbreath, Pittsburgh. The firm is represented by D. Lindley Sloan and F. Brooke Whiting.

Hearing on a demurrer to the suit for damages of $6,353 plus interest filed by Scott R. Street, Cumberland, against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad more than two years ago, was postponed yesterday morning at the request of Street's attorney, Edward J. Ryan. The demurrer was filed by Sloan and William A. Gunter, attorneys for the railroad, and it was reported the company will take action to have the suit removed to Washington county.

Two appeals to circuit court have been taken from decisions of the state accident commission. One is the case of David W. Shearer against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Shearer is represented by Morgan C. Harris while the company is represented by Gunter.

The second appeal is the case of Glen E. Winters against the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company. Harris represents Winters with William S. Jenkins and Harold Robinson representing the defendants.

Wallace Seems Likely To Get Bob-Tail Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Henry Wallace's prospect of becoming secretary of commerce was brightened today by the House Banking committee's unanimous approval of the Senate-passed George Bill.

The measure, which divorces the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subsidiary lending agencies from the Commerce department, received favorable action after Democrats beat down a Republican attempt to repeal part of the president's war powers.

Floor Battle Looms

The Banking committee's action transferred to the House floor the battle on the Republican proposal to fence in the former vice president further by repealing President Roosevelt's wartime authority to reshuffle federal agencies. This probably will begin next week.

Committee democrats held their lines solid to defeat the proposal, 15 to 11. Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), ranking minority member, announced immediately he would carry the fight to the floor.

House Republican Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, contended that without the amendment the president could "give Wallace twenty-five or thirty federal agencies other than the RFC."

Await George Bill Vote

The Senate has delayed action on Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Wallace as secretary of commerce, pending final disposition of the bill by Senator George (D-Ga.), which lifts control of the RFC and other federal loan agencies from the commerce department.

Some leaders of the anti-Wallace forces hoped a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats could force amendments into the bill that would prompt a presidential veto and thus bring about outright Senate rejection of Wallace.

But the southerners apparently were shying away from such a coalition.

Defeat Republican Amendment

Before reporting the George bill to the House, Democrats in the Banking committee defeated two other Republican amendments:

1. To pull from under the secretary of commerce the seat on the Export-Import bank. The vote was 14 to 12 with one Democrat joining the Republicans.

2. To provide rigid audits of all corporations controlled by the government. The bill now provides the amendment by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) calling for an audit of RFC. This vote was 15 to 10.

evening hours was looking at the blaze and shaking his head; and then he turned to me and said sadly, 'well, boys, there goes our good time in Manila.'"

Feldman said in a later broadcast it was certain that many persons perished in the downtown district.

"The blaze was between us and the Pasig river and a wind which came up in mid-evening began to fan the flames in our direction," Feldman continued.

"Scattered fires began blazing in other directions from us and soon after 9 o'clock buildings went up which were near enough so that burning embers began falling on the campus."

"Just before 10 o'clock, Brig. Gen. William C. Chase of our First cavalry told me he was sending a company of ambulances and trucks from Santo Tomas to Bilbid prison. The fire at that time seemed to be sweeping dangerously close to Bilbid where over 1,300 civilian internees and war prisoners had been freed earlier by our Thirty-seventh division."

"General Chase wasn't sure whether or not they would have to be evacuated and, if so, if they had enough transportation. So shortly after ten a great convoy swept out of the gates of Santo Tomas. I rode in a jeep with a colonel named Courtney Whitney. We raced down the wide expanse of Quezon avenue which was almost as bright as day."

It is an actual fact that as our convoy sped along Filipinos watching the downtown area of their home city aflame cheered and applauded us as we raced past them on this errand of mercy into the flaming heart of Manila. x x x

"Bilbid stood almost empty, as it turned out, the dark towers atop the walls deserted. There were a few hundred people in civilian clothes outside the main gate and a few soldiers. x x x The stone buildings within which American prisoners had suffered and died were then deserted and only a detachment of GIs were firmly dug in as protection against the flaming stuff which was coming down. They told us Bilbid had been evacuated of all internees and prisoners. Only the people we had seen outside the gates remained."

"We came back there and we helped load them and their belongings onto the trucks. They were former civilian internees, men, women and children. They were a bit nervous and frightened but not too bad.

"I'll never forget the tragic faces of these Americans on this night of the fifth of February as they sat in the trucks outside Bilbid prison with fire all around them. The trucks with the internees headed north to a hospital."

places in the Kustrin-Frankfurt sector, northeast and directly east of Berlin. Moscow has not yet announced any bridgeheads in that sector, but a Soviet broadcast declared:

"Kustrin and Frankfurt are being outflanked. No miracle can save Berlin. Its fall can be delayed only for a few weeks at the most."

The German Transocean agency said the newest Russian bridgeheads were at Furstenberg, fourteen miles south of Frankfurt and at a point a little more than three miles south of that city. It said another "temporary" crossing was made north of Frankfurt.

Zhuikov has broken into the outer defenses of Frankfurt itself, said Lt. Col. Alfred von Olberg, German military commentator, but he claimed that Russian efforts to establish a bridgehead in the city had been repulsed.

The enemy reported Monday that Zhuikov's troops were on the Oder's west bank at Kienitz, nine miles northwest of Kustrin, and at two more unspecified points farther northwest.

A military spokesman for the German DNB agency stated, "on a front stretching from Kustrin to Frankfurt, the enemy's main forces already are in action," indicating Zhuikov's armored columns were backed by infantry, artillery and tactical aircraft.

The Nazi garrison at Stettin, the German accounts said, resisted stubbornly when Konev's forces approached from the east but was unable to prevent river crossings on both sides of the town and it swift encirclement. Today, the garrison ran out of ammunition and, according to the German radio, retreated to German lines farther west.

Former Nazi General Executed as Coward

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Police

President von Dabitz of Bydgoszcz in Poland, a former SS general, has been executed "for cowardice and neglect of duty" on Heinrich Himmler's orders, the German radio said today.

Bydgoszcz, northeast of Poznan, was captured in the Soviet drive beyond Warsaw.

The broadcast said several other German officials "who neglected their duties and did not live up to the standard of German honor" have been handed over to a court martial by Himmler. Three of these have been expelled from the army and will be "assigned especially dangerous, difficult, and dangerous tasks," it added.

In Hungary, the Red army's growing offensive southwest of Budapest was beginning to take on steamroller proportions and Moscow indicated the Russians might once more be surging toward the Austrian border.

In East Prussia, groups of Germans badly split and disorganized were falling prey to roving units of Russian tommygunners as the Soviet campaign to annihilate the German defenders of the province continued. Most of East Prussia is under Red army domination, but its capital, Konigsberg — like Budapest — is proving a formidable bastion and it may require days of close-quarter fighting to reduce it, Moscow dispatches said.

Eight Youths Will Take Navy Tests

Two Oakland youths and a Longbeach boy, all 17, will join a group of five other naval volunteers who will go to Baltimore today for their final physical examinations before reporting for general assignment in the navy, according to Chief Petty Officer Walter B. Warmee, in charge of local navy recruiting.

They are Joe Jack Giotfelty, 78 Second street, Oakland, a graduate of Oakland high school last June; Eugene DeWitt Helbig, 25 High street, Oakland; and George Wilson, Jr., Robbie street, Longbeach.

Others leaving today include William T. Stepe, 912 Glenwood street; William S. Blocher, Grantsville; James W. Bolyard, 457 Baltimore avenue; Raymond A. Goodwin, Longbeach; and John B. Robinson, 211 South Spruce street. They are all 17 years of age.

The boys will report to the local navy recruiting station at 10 a. m. today for final instructions prior to leaving for Baltimore.

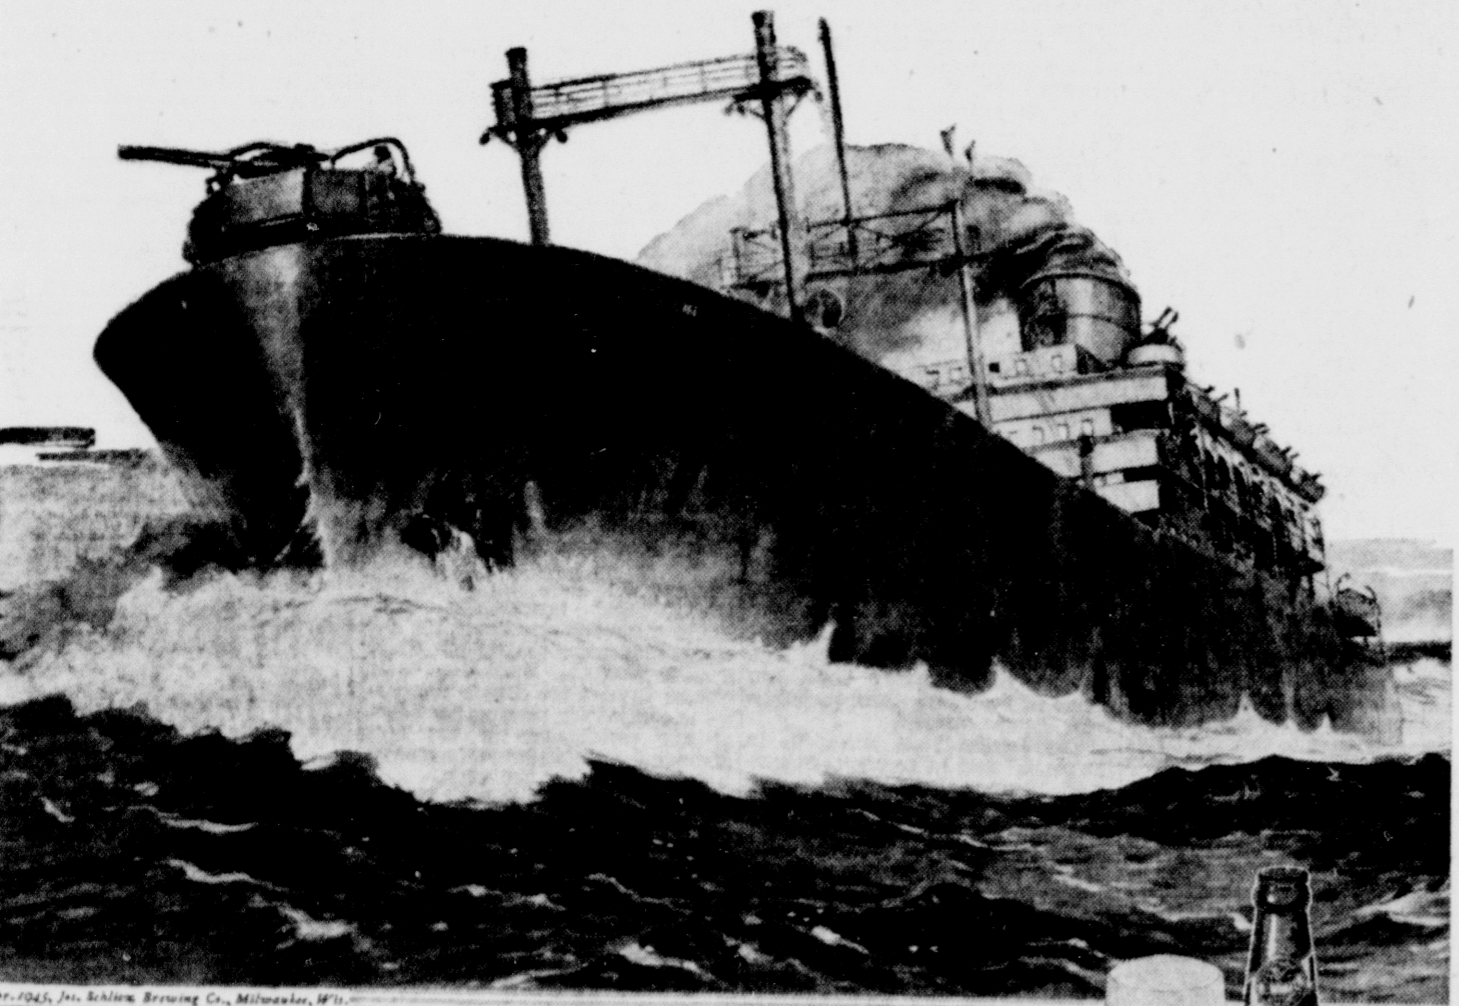

Edward Francis Carder, 28, 193 Welsh hill, Probstburg, will also leave for Baltimore today for a physical examination before reporting for duty with the Seabees as a carpenter's mate, second class. Carder, who is married and has one child, has been employed at the Celanese plant since 1932. He was a textile supervisor there before entering the Seabees, Chief Warmee said.

Delbert C. Leese, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Leese, 117 East Main street, Probstburg, will leave today for Washington, where he will take a physical examination before beginning training as an air combat crewman.

Chief Warmee said that Richard G. Jenkins, 39, McCulloch street, Probstburg, reported for duty yesterday with the Seabees as a ship-fitter, second class. Jenkins was employed at the Celanese plant before working for the Cumberland and Westernport Transportation Company.

Slogan Economics

And the Facts

THE SHALLOWNESS of some of the slogan economics in which the New Dealers and their lunatic fringers are promoting comes in for attention by the New York Herald Tribune. It shows how artificial and demagogic some of these are.

The Herald Tribune says that while William Jennings Bryan made much political capital out of his famous phrase, "a cross of gold," and Huey Long will be remembered for the watchword, "every man a king," never to the present has an administration raised the production of slogans to the status of a major industry as is now the case.

Outstanding among these slogans is "60,000,000 jobs" and an "economic bill of rights," which are calculated to grease the way for newer and bigger spending programs. Other and earlier examples, designed to swing labor and the so-called liberals, consisted of the reiteration of such terms as "a return to widespread unemployment will mean a revolution" and the declaration that we can no longer tolerate a system under which prosperity "filters down" from the capitalists to the workers.

The Herald Tribune sifts these down to the real residue. "Certainly," it says, "the country cannot afford, socially or politically, to return to the unemployment situation of the '30s, when by putting first one obstacle and then another in the path of recovery, the administration succeeded in creating a condition of chronic depression, with the average unemployed about 9,000,000 until the war effort brought artificial relief. But the fewer than 1,000,000 unemployed, which was the average for the twenty years previous to the advent of the economic master minds of the New Deal, is well below conservative estimates of 'frictional unemployment' in the postwar years and well under the ratio contemplated, for example, in the Beveridge plan for postwar social security in Great Britain. When we talk of the alternative of unemployment and 'revolution' we should clarify our minds on whether we mean the unemployment before the '30s or in the prewar '30s."

"As for the observation about prosperity 'filtering down' from the top," that seems to assume that the public has never read the income statement of a corporation. It is true that corporate income "filters down," but the process is from labor down to capital, and not vice versa.

"For example, there has just come to hand the simplified statement of the Johns-Manville Corporation for the year of 1944. This shows that the company had a total income of $101 millions. Of this it paid $48 millions on materials and miscellaneous costs. Another $39 millions was paid out in salaries and wages, and after that the government took its tax cut, which was $9 millions. This left a residue of $5 millions, of which $2 millions was allotted to the stockholders in dividends. The other $3 millions was left in the business as a rainy-day insurance for both labor and the stockholder.

"That is the way prosperity 'filters down' in actual practice under the system of private enterprise."

All of this makes sense, but it may be wondered how many can grasp it and also how many don't give a rap whether they do or not.

A Training That Is Well Worth While

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA will observe their thirty-fifth anniversary during the week of February 9-14.

The work of the Boy Scouts is one of the most important activities carried on for the youth of America.

To help this generation of boys grow into healthy manhood, it is necessary that they have proper training to strengthen their bodies and enrich their minds. A respect for law and order, a spirit of unselfish service to others, are a part of good citizenship.

Self-reliance and resourcefulness are as essential in time of peace as in war. Here in America we shall continue to need men trained to appreciate our heritage and put into practice in their home communities all that we think of when we use the word democracy.

The training given to the youth of America by the Boy Scout movement is one of the finest ways possible to assure the perpetuation of good citizenship and American ideals. The Scout membership is now 1,800,000. It would be a splendid thing if every boy in America who wants to be a Scout could have an opportunity to be one. They can if men of character and institutions and groups interested in youth get behind the movement and give it the proper support.

A Spending Rather Than a Job Bill

THE MURRAY "FULL EMPLOYMENT" BILL pending in Congress ought to be known as a measure to complete the subjugation of private enterprise, for that is just what it is, for which reason it is being backed by the New Deal left-wingers in pursuance of the collectivist program on which they have been so artfully working.

The bill provides that in addition to the familiar fiscal budget the president present to Congress on the first day of each session a so-called job budget. This budget would state (a) the number of jobs in domestic industry and foreign trade needed to assure full employment; (b) the volume of investment and other expenditures by business, consumers and all levels of government which would assure this number of jobs; and (c) the estimated volume of such investment and expenditure definitely in sight.

fall below the number of jobs necessary, the federal government would be empowered (a) to formulate policies stimulating private enterprise to offer still more jobs; and (b) to the extent that these stimulants to private enterprise might be expected to fail, then the government would be empowered to move in with a program of investment and expenditure of its own to close the gap.

But, what if policies ostensibly designed to stimulate private enterprise are not actually stimulating? Could the New Dealers, in the light of experience, be depended upon to provide effective job-creating stimulants once the war fulcrum has vanished? And who would determine that, and upon what set of standards or statistics would it be determined that it is necessary for the government to step in with a spending program?

Those conversant with the political facts of life in Washington can easily see that here are plenty of loopholes for the New Dealers under force of the pressure groups now exercising dominant power in Washington to which they know how for the sake of votes to cut loose with another enormous spending spree. Mere statistics are a rather treacherous thing upon which to fasten a national program of this sort, since they can be twisted in multifarious ways to meet any desire.

Where Hatred Is A Potent Weapon

WHEN the Japanese undertook to conquer the Philippines as part of their ambitious plans to control the Pacific, they did not take into consideration a factor which is adding to their defeat—the hatred of the Philippines has always had for the Japs, even as distant neighbors. Toward invaders and conquerors this hatred became more intense, and out of it came resistance which, in the final analysis, must be given considerable credit for regaining the territory.

There are 7,000 islands in the Philippine group, with coast lines of more than 12,000 miles. The Japs could do no more than seize principal ports and cities. Immediately guerrilla bands began to operate from the jungles and far places over which the Japs did not have control. Some of these bands were led by Americans who had escaped from Bataan. Others were commanded by Filipinos. Arms and food were smuggled in to some of these forces.

Gradually the Japs were forced to withdraw into towns and cities, after hundreds had been killed. Equipped with radios, the guerrillas gave daily reports to American forces on movements of the enemy. Before Gen. MacArthur landed on Luzon he had received from this source complete information as to size and location of Jap forces. Hate is a potent weapon in war, as the Japs have discovered in the Philippines.

Kerensky Bonds A Wild Gamble

REPORT that the Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating speculation in the United States in bonds floated in the United States by the provisional or Kerensky government of Russia in 1917 is new proof that hope of financial gain is easily aroused in the average American.

The Kerensky government had the full support of the Wilson administration when these bonds, reported to total $185,000,000, were floated in the United States. When the Kerensky government was overthrown by the Reds, the bonds were repudiated.

It is reported that rumors of an approaching agreement by the Stalin government to pay these obligations, in order to obtain postwar credits, resulted in a considerable rise in the price of the Kerensky bonds. The truth is, of course, that the present Russian government has no intention of paying these bonds. At least there has been no official intimation to that effect in Washington or Moscow.

But activities of the Security and Exchange Commission, if attended with publicity will no doubt have the effect of increasing demand for the worthless paper. American speculators still like a wild gamble.

Children Pick on Me!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I've heard you can't fool a child. It knows the instant it sees an adult everything about the grown-up's nature. . . . But I don't believe it. I can't see how a baby that's so irresponsible he sticks beans up his nose and tries to eat ant poison on bread can know so much. But that's what I've heard and it may be true. And if it's true, I'd like to know what babies in arms, crawling infants and all other children up to the age of six are thinking about when they look at me. My own private idea is that they think I'm a puny old man.

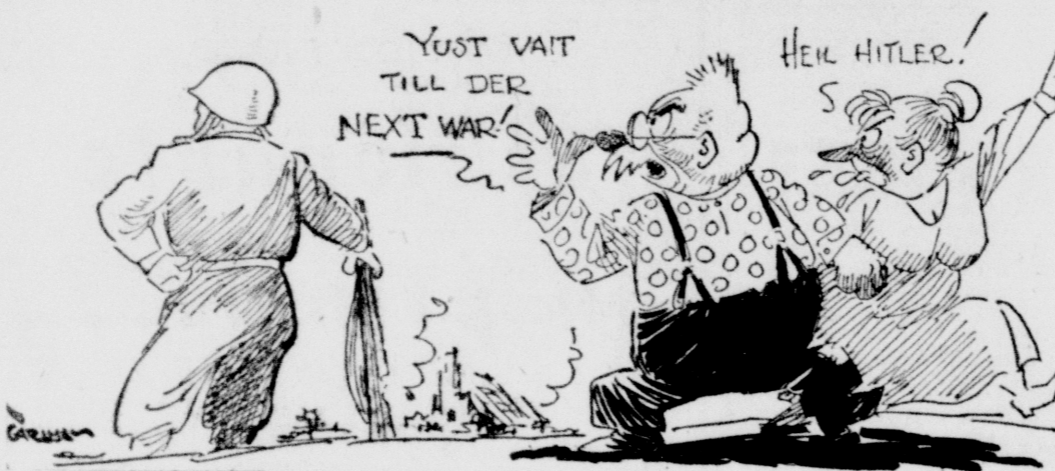

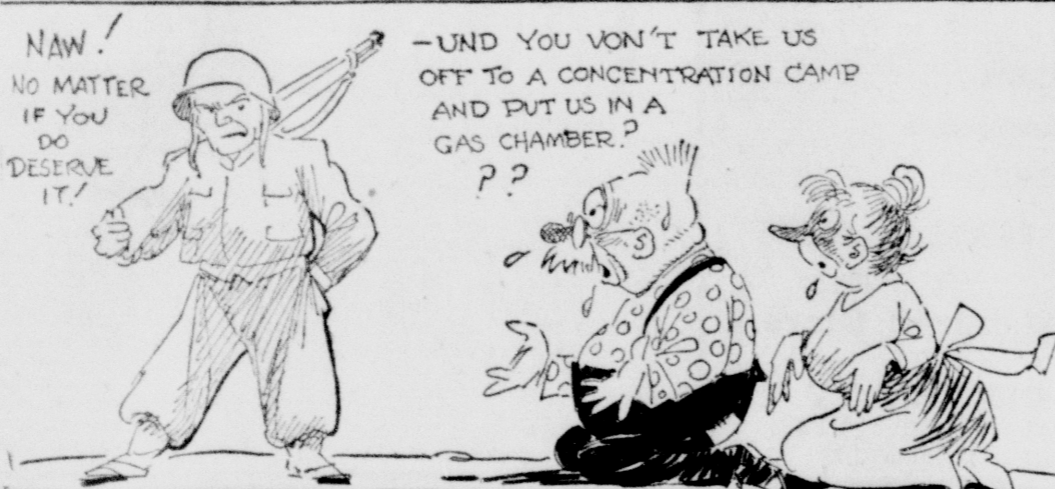

Many a time I've bent innocently over a baby carriage and wished I hadn't. All I did was look at cute little baby, and what did that baby do. After staring at me solemnly for five seconds, his face fractured into a gurgle and he reached out a fat moist thumb and stuck it into my eye. I swear I didn't even wink at the child—but I got a thumb in my eye just the same.

I'm prey for the species. The word has been passed around that I'm Mr. E. Z. Mark and will stand for anything. . . . Little boys look me over and make flying tackles at my knees. Sometimes they try to tear out my hair by the roots. They call me funny names like Mr. Gee-Gee or Mr. Goo-Goo. They want to fight or play tag. They tickle and they giggle and they say "do it again." They keep it up until I'm worn out and want to quit. But they won't let me. They keep it up until somebody's hurt—and that somebody is always ME. I got that thumb in my eye and my hair all mussed up. I perspire and get a twisted finger or a skinned knee. It's more fun—for them.

Why is it I can't impress them my dignity, with the fact that I'm grown up and out of school and married with children of my own, and I was in one war and have been earning by living for years, while they're still sponging off their parents. They pay no attention to all that, but dive in and start bawling.

Do I mind. . . . I confess I don't. I like it. It flatters me and I expect it, and when babies stop doing it my feelings will be hurt. . . . I'll know then that I'm just an old, old, old gentleman who's no use at all.

Strategy of Delaying Actions Is Shown By Survey of Probable Tokyo Planning

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Considerable discussion has arisen over the reasons why the Japanese let us believe the conquest of Manila would be difficult and why relatively little resistance actually was offered. This opens up the whole subject of what is going on in the Japanese mind with reference to the strategy of the war in the Far East.

Looking at the war only from a Japanese standpoint and trying to reason from the viewpoint of the war and navy officials in Tokyo is something that American strategists are constantly doing in order to fathom the next moves of the enemy. The following may be a reasonable explanation or hypothesis of Japanese thinking!

First, the Japanese have recognized from the start that the United States possesses far superior resources and that the only hope of the Japanese was to fight a long war with the expectation or belief that the American people would grow weary.

Second, using the long-war idea as a basic assumption, the naval strategists in Tokyo have figured on a course of delay. The attack on Pearl Harbor was a move in that direction. If successful, the Japanese reasoned it would set the American navy back a couple of years at least. Meanwhile, a spirited offensive could be operated to take in the Philippines, the Netherlands East Indies and perhaps Australia.

Third, the Japanese in February 1945, looking back on their strategy, can defend it as eminently successful for, as perhaps is being suggested in Tokyo, didn't it take the Americans three whole years to work their way back from New Guinea to the Philippines and recapture Manila? The losses to the American army and navy in that interim were not inconsequential by any means and such severe damage has been inflicted on our ships as to retard for a while our march northward in the Pacific. Manila is still 1,800 miles from Tokyo, and air bombing alone doesn't win wars.

Deceptive Propaganda. Fourth, what steps can be taken now to prolong the war another three years? The defense of the Philippines in 1945 was doubtless long ago written off in Tokyo as not worth the sacrifice entailed, especially after the Japanese fleet suffered a devastating defeat in two battles off the Philippines last year. Part of the strategy, as is now apparent, was to send out propaganda foretelling an intention to fight a decisive battle on Luzon when all the time no such plan was really contemplated. But it did tie up a considerable portion of the American navy and army for a long while and may continue to do so for months to come while the Japanese feverishly repair their damaged fleet.

Fifth, the same delaying tactics can be pursued with respect to China. The United States, the Japanese may be saying, will not risk a direct invasion of the main Japanese islands but will attempt to make landings in China. This means a prolonged struggle on the continent of Asia. The cutting of the Burma road was a step in the delay plan. The capture of the railroad which bisects China is a similar step.

Sixth, industrial resources have been mobilized by the Japanese on the continent of Asia which, together with ample Japanese manpower, can keep the struggle going for another three years at least.

Seventh, once the European war is over, the Americans will have to mobilize millions of men for the battles on the mainland of Asia and this, in turn, means at least a year to eighteen months delay in getting the Allied troops and bases into operation. Meanwhile, if the Russians do enter the war, the Japanese feel they can inflict serious delaying blows on the Russians and interfere by submarines with supply lines across the Pacific from the United States to Siberia.

Eighth, the ending of the war in Europe may prove a real "break" for the Japanese in the sense of delaying still further American operations in the Far East. The demands from Britain and France for shipping to supply food and raw materials will grow to such an extent as to exceed the tonnage previously used for the Allied armies. The problems of Germany and the liberated countries will add to the demands for ships and keep America busy. Perhaps America also will have to keep an occupying army in Europe for at least five years. This imposes an additional strain on the supply side.

Friction an Asset. Ninth, the Japanese figure on constant friction and dissension inside China between the communists and the other factions to keep Chinese manpower from being mobilized. Likewise, more and more land-based fighter craft are being built in Japan to prey upon American submarines that enter the Sea of Japan or Yellow sea and to fight off American aircraft carriers.

The Japanese strategy is plainly one of delay, hoping by attrition to get the American people to agree to some compromise. This will be denounced promptly as absurd by all Americans, regardless of party. But considering the confusion on our home front and the prospect of more confusion when the European war ends and business-as-usual, and politics-as-usual suddenly are resumed with more and more intensity, maybe the theory of delay doesn't look from the Tokyo viewpoint to be so far-fetched as we in America think it is.

Mechanical Cotton Pickers Will Bring Big Cut in Labor

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD AP Newsmaster

DALLAS, Tex.—At two miles an hour, a red-painted contraption eats its way up and down long rows in the flat, white cotton fields, tirelessly spinning fluff into its maw. Since the days of the Pharaohs in the Nile, cotton harvesting has been the tedious task of millions of human hands. The mechanical cotton picker heralds an era in which the farmer will perspire no longer over the problem of obtaining migratory workers at the right time. And complete mechanized production well could be America's foot-in-the-door to postwar cotton markets.

After thirty years of experimentation, the International Harvester Company is producing two types of single-row pickers—one for high cotton, another for low. At least two other large farm equipment concerns are reported ready to manufacture similar machines.

One man operates International's machine and it readily harvests 650 pounds of cotton per hour. The average field hand picks about twenty-five pounds per hour.

The picker is mounted on a tractor which provides power to operate and propel it through the fields. In off-seasons the tractor is put to other uses.

The machine has two vertical, parallel revolving drums between which cotton plants pass as the picker moves forward along the rows.

Each drum is equipped with cam-

Lea Continues His Fight To Abolish Electoral College

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — Representative Clarence F. Lea (D., of California, refuses to concede defeat in his seventeen-year-old fight in Congress to abolish the electoral college.

Like the late Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, who strove for years before he obtained enactment of the Twentieth amendment abolishing "lame duck" Congresses, Lea will try again.

He has re-introduced, for the eleventh time since 1927, his resolution for a constitutional amendment providing for the election of the president and vice president by direct vote of the people. The resolution he introduced last year failed to get even to first base.

However, Lea, who has been in Congress since 1916, appeared somewhat more optimistic of obtaining results in the present Congress than he did in the old Seventy-eighth Congress which adjourned Dec. 19. Hearings Promised. For one thing, Representative Herbert C. Bonner (D.), of North Carolina, has promised to hold public hearings on Lea's proposal before his committee on election of president, vice president and representatives in Congress.

"I'll be glad to give him a public hearing on his proposal," said Bonner. "That's an American privilege and I aim to keep it that way."

The hearings may be held early this session. Two of Lea's resolutions got as far as the House calendar, being unanimously approved by the committee, but failed to get the right of way from the House Rules committee, an almost essential prerequisite to a House vote.

The Lea amendment would do away with presidential electors but would give each state electoral votes equal to the number of presidential electors now granted by the constitution.

Vacuum Cleaned

The cotton is conveyed by vacuum to a separating chamber where considerable trash is taken out. Then blown up into the storage basket by air pressure, passing along a grating which further sifts out trash. The basket holds approximately one-half bale of seed cotton; when filled it is dumped by a hydraulic lift.

The picker has been tested in Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and California. A major criticism is that it gets some green leaves mixed with the lint and these provide trash difficult for ordinary gin equipment to remove.

Gins with special driers handle this problem. There are wartime restrictions on the manufacture of driers, however, and in Texas only about twenty per cent of gins are so equipped.

In three-year tests conducted at the Hopson Plantation, Clarksdale, Miss., the average total cost of machine picking a bale of cotton was found to be $5.83 as compared with $3.14 for hand picking.

The average hand-picked bale was of higher grade and was valued at $8.64. The machine-picked bale brought $7.62. Net saving on a mechanically harvested bale was $1.62.

In many cases, plants are defoliated with chemicals before cotton is harvested mechanically. Machines or planes dust the fields about forty days after the last white bloom of the cotton plants drop off. Leaves soon blacken and fall, leaving only cotton bolls on the stalk.

Chemical Defoliation

Defoliation has not proven successful everywhere, according to D. T. Killough, Texas A. & M. agronomist.

"The proper degree of dew and humidity is necessary before cyanide dust will destroy cell growth and cause the leaves to wither and drop," he says. "Without these conditions leaves will dry and crumble into the cotton and you can't get it out. Another problem arises if the dust is applied too soon. In that case late bolls will not mature."

Harvesting of the South's cotton crop was pinched in 1944 by acute labor shortages. In West Texas, new devices, mostly homemade, were put into use. In that area cotton is stripped from the stalk, a quick method but one which lowers the grade. This type of mechanical harvesting is known as "sledding" because the first such harvesters were mounted on large sleds.

One of the latest sledding machines is tractor mounted. Fingers operating off a chain comb everything off a cotton stalk and elevate it into a hopper.

Lea Continues His Fight To Abolish Electoral College

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — Representative Clarence F. Lea (D., of California, refuses to concede defeat in his seventeen-year-old fight in Congress to abolish the electoral college.

Like the late Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, who strove for years before he obtained enactment of the Twentieth amendment abolishing "lame duck" Congresses, Lea will try again.

He has re-introduced, for the eleventh time since 1927, his resolution for a constitutional amendment providing for the election of the president and vice president by direct vote of the people. The resolution he introduced last year failed to get even to first base.

However, Lea, who has been in Congress since 1916, appeared somewhat more optimistic of obtaining results in the present Congress than he did in the old Seventy-eighth Congress which adjourned Dec. 19. Hearings Promised.

For one thing, Representative Herbert C. Bonner (D.), of North Carolina, has promised to hold public hearings on Lea's proposal before his committee on election of president, vice president and representatives in Congress.

"I'll be glad to give him a public hearing on his proposal," said Bonner. "That's an American privilege and I aim to keep it that way."

The hearings may be held early this session. Two of Lea's resolutions got as far as the House calendar, being unanimously approved by the committee, but failed to get the right of way from the House Rules committee, an almost essential prerequisite to a House vote.

The Lea amendment would do away with presidential electors but would give each state electoral votes equal to the number of presidential electors now granted by the constitution.

Aggregate Vote Decisive

"The outstanding feature of this proposal," explained Lea, "is that instead of crediting all the electoral votes of each state to the plurality candidate, as at present, it would divide them between the candidates in each state in exact proportion to their popular vote therein. The candidate receiving the highest electoral vote in the aggregate vote of the nation would be elected."

"No one can truthfully say that the electoral college system furnishes a just method of electing a president," declared Lea. "It cannot be said that its method of computing votes properly registers the will of the American people as expressed by their votes at the polls. This system is incapable of doing so accurately at any time."

"The outstanding difficulty of that system," he continued, "is the state unit vote. The candidate receiving the plurality vote in each state is given its total electoral vote. Majority Rule Preserved.

"That system prevents minority votes for any candidate in any state from being counted to offset the majority votes of that candidate in other states."

"That is true although the minority vote NOT credited to the candidate in one state may greatly exceed his majority vote in another state.

"In the recent election, based on incomplete returns, Governor Dewey received 2,663,487 votes in ten states, yet he received NO electoral votes from the larger popular vote in New York and did receive sixty-two electoral votes from the smaller popular vote. The larger popular vote gave him NO electoral votes; the smaller popular vote gave him sixty-two electoral votes."

"Thus, in effect," pointed out Lea, "all minority votes in each state are disfranchised by the fact that their votes are NOT computed in determining the final result."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Lt. Eleanor Lee, Prisoner of War, Reported Freed

Nurse Was Interned by Japanese in Philippines

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONAONING, Feb. 6.—Lt. Eleanor Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, Sr., Dudley, was among the 3,700 prisoners of war of the Japanese government liberated when the Yanks seized Manila.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee received word by telephone this morning from the Baltimore Times that their daughter's name was listed among the prisoners released.

Neighbors told them of reports on the radio yesterday that all the nurses captured at the fall of Corregidor had been accounted for.

Lt. Lee left for the foreign service June 6, 1941, and was serving in the army nursing corps at Sternberg general hospital, Manila, at the outbreak of the war.

She left Manila Christmas night of that year and went into Bataan for the next three months until the fall of Corregidor. She contracted malaria during February.

The first word from her after she was taken prisoner arrived through the International Red Cross, Geneva, Switzerland, on the day after Thanksgiving in 1942. The message related that she was "safe and well."

Thursday, January 18, Mr. and Mrs. Lee received a card from her dated May 9, 1944. She had been transferred from Santo Tomas, Manila, to the Philippine Internment camp No. 1.

She wrote that she was in good health and that she had received one cable and one letter since she had been a prisoner. She asked about all at home and about her brother, Sgt. Charles Lee.

Sgt. Lee, a paratrooper, was wounded in action in France and is home now after undergoing an operation at Woodrow Wilson general hospital, Staunton, Va. Lt. Lee is a sister of Mrs. Doris Dawson.

Joseph Angelletta Is Fined $25

Joseph Angelletta was fined $25 Monday morning in police court on a charge of operating a card game in a rear room of the poolroom he owns at 27 Front street. He was arrested by Lieut. Detective R. Emmett Flynn and Officers J. Carl Stouffer and John W. Snyder.

Angelletta is the first poolroom operator fined under the recently passed ordinance increasing the fines for such a charge from $25 to $100 instead of $10 to $25. He posted $100 bond when taken to police headquarters Saturday night.

Four other persons forfeited $100 bonds apiece in police court yesterday morning when they failed to appear on charges of drunken and disorderly conduct. They are:

William Foster Ault, Weber street, who was arrested at 6:05 a. m. yesterday by Detective Edwin R. Liliya; Orville R. Howell, Harrison street, arrested at 3:25 a. m. yesterday by Lieut. James E. Van and Detective Liliya; Richard S. Kincaid, Ridgeley, arrested shortly after midnight last night by Officer Thomas J. See, and Edward Wisnucki, Braddock, Pa., arrested at the same time by Officer See.

In the United States colds are most prevalent three seasons of the year: October-November, January and March-April.

Poll Shows National Service Law Favored by Majority of Citizens

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 6 — A nationwide poll taken as Congress moved toward final passage of National Service legislation finds the vast majority of Americans still looking with approval upon a National service law, assuming the need.

This is not surprising, however, for the majority of voters have favored the principle of drafting the people for war jobs since as far back as March, 1942, when the Institute took its earliest surveys on the issue — soon after our entry into the war.

In the present survey, the Institute put the following question to a cross-section of the nation's voting population:

"What is your opinion of the proposal to draft people for war jobs?"

Here is the way the replies divide, among those with opinions:

Approve drafting people 55%
Approve drafting only if necessary ..... 21
Disapprove drafting people 24

One in ten questioned had no opinion.

One of the facts emerging from the survey which should be especially encouraging to advocates of national service is that the very people who think they would be affected under such a law are the ones most in favor of it.

This is shown in the following table giving the vote of those with opinions in this group on the question:

Approve drafting people 59%
Approve drafting only if necessary ..... 19
Disapprove drafting people 22

Seven per cent did not have an opinion.

A substantial proportion among the one-quarter who oppose the proposal take this stand not because they object to the principle of national service, but because like the one in five who give qualified approval, they question the need for such a law.

There are no substantial differences in sentiment between men and women on the question. The sixty-two per cent of those questioned who say they have followed the discussion over the National Service act favor the legislation by a majority slightly greater than is the case when all replies are tabulated.

ALDRIDGE THROWS
SUPPORT TO MEAGHER
IN TEXTILE ELECTION

Playford Aldridge last evening announced his support for William E. Meagher as president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, in the run-off election which will be concluded tomorrow. Aldridge, member of the local's executive board, won third place in the struggle for the position of head of the Textile local and was eliminated from the run-off election. His statement read:

"I desire to thank the members of Local 1874, TWU, who supported and voted for me in my recent campaign for president of the local. I am of the firm opinion that his past experience and past services in behalf of the union warrants the election of Mr. Meagher to the office of president and I believe that those who supported me will serve their union best by voting solidly for Mr. Meagher."

Opposing Meagher for the post is Robert Blair, who declared last week he would be in the race "righting to the finish," in denying a rumor that he was withdrawing from the race.

Other candidates in the run-off election are Raymond McGraw,

Hawkins Seeks Writ
Of Habeas Corpus

Charging that he was illegally detained in the Maryland House of Correction, George C. Hawkins, Baltimore, has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against the warden of the house of correction. A hearing on the petition will be held before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper in circuit court at 11 a. m. today.

Hawkins was sentenced to serve eighteen months in the house of correction after a trial in Baltimore in 1942 on charges of deserting his wife and failing to support their children. While he was serving his sentence, he was transferred from the house of correction to the Maryland penal farm in Washington county.

According to Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, Hawkins escaped from the penal farm several months ago and went to Ohio, where he was recaptured. After a trial in the Hagerstown circuit court before Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hawkins was sentenced to three years at the penal farm on a charge of escaping from prison.

Hawkins claims that he was not given a fair trial in the Baltimore court, and alleges that he was illegally imprisoned at the house of correction, Harris said. Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, will represent the warden at today's hearing.

In view of the continued high level of egg production in the state, extension poultrymen at the University of Maryland are advising Maryland flock owners to consider a rigid culling of flocks to avoid a serious slump in prices this spring.

Why let "monthly grumps" make you miserable—and everyone about you? Maybe they are not necessary. Thousands of girls and women have discovered that functional periodic pains usually are greatly relieved when they take Chi-Ches-Ters Pills at the time their period is expected. Taken according to direction, preferably two or three days before your time, they tend to relax the muscular contractions that have been found to cause pain, cramps, headaches and nervousness of such periods. An added iron ingredient in Chi-Ches-Ters Pills helps to promote resistance and energy. Be sure to ask your druggist for Chi-Ches-Ters Pills, and accept no substitute. Caution: Use only as directed.

Berlin Only One

With loss to Russian forces of the Silesian industrial hub in the upper Oder valley, the war industries of Saxony and the other states spreading across the central plains to the Alps in the south are vital to any Nazi organized defense of the Oder line or behind it.

Saxony also offered the big bombers targets of hardly less significance from the "war of nerves" point of view. The attacks were calculated to bring home to great masses of the German people the fact that nowhere in Germany are they safe from Allied or Russian attack.

In the battle for Berlin itself by Nazi broadcasts the Oder defense line has been Russian-punctured in many places and its main bastions, Frankfurt and Kustrin, half encircled.

Expectancy of the onset in the west at any moment of an Allied power drive to reach the Rhine is reflected in field dispatches as well as in Nazi broadcasts reporting heavy massing of troops along the Roer and Maas sectors northeast of Aachen.

Save Natural Gas
for the War Effort

Natural Gas companies here, supplying Gas to war plants and to homes and stores and other commercial establishments, have done everything in their power to assure an ample supply of Natural Gas. They have drilled new wells, built new pipelines and compressor stations, and stored huge reserves in underground storage pools... all to the extent permitted by shortages of critical materials.

Nevertheless, a cold wave lasting several days puts a severe strain on their facilities. This must not be permitted to cause any interruption of war production.

So the War Production Board asks that every householder do all he can to hold down his own use of this vital fuel, through such economies as are listed at the right.

None of them is difficult to do. None of them is one—two—three with the sacrifices we are asking of our boys in the service—in Europe, the Philippines, China, on the oceans of the globe. Yet they are important things to do—today... definite ways in which you, too, can help them to win this war quickly.

Natural Gas is vital to war industries...

Use it wisely!

Help win the war today
these 7 ways:

1. Refrain from using the range for kitchen heating on cold days.
2. Don't use small Gas room heaters on cold days; shut off rooms not in actual use.
3. Set thermostat lower during the day, still lower at night. The Government urges a maximum of 68 degrees F. for indoor temperatures.
4. Close bedroom doors at night if windows are open, use rugs at doors to stop heat loss, see that fireplace dampers are closed.
5. Economize in use of range by using a low blue flame, cutting down on amount of water for cooking vegetables, cooking more one-dish meals, keeping burners clean.
6. Repair leaky hot water faucets, insulate pipes and tank, don't leave hot water running while washing, don't fill tub quite so full for baths, set water heater thermostat at a minimum.
7. Gas refrigerators use little Gas, but every little helps the war on very cold days. So don't leave the door open—it creates a cold draft—don't put hot or warm dishes in, and don't overcook it.

Home on Greene Street Acquired By Purple Heart

Formal Opening Will Be Feature of Purple Heart Week

Acquisition of the Colonial tavern at 770 Greene street by Mountain Chapter, No. 156, Military Order of the Purple Heart, for use as a Purple Heart Center was disclosed last night by George M. Leib, Maryland department commander and adjutant of the local post, with his announcement that the center will be formally opened on February 21 as one of the features of Purple Heart week.

Observance of Purple Heart week, which this year will be statewide by proclamation of Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, will be held from February 18 through February 24 and a daily schedule of events was outlined last night by Leib.

Features of the observance include presentation of Purple Heart medals to five veterans of the First World War at a ceremony on the stage of the Maryland theater on February 19 as well as a dinner and dance to be held at the Queen City hotel on February 24.

Tag Day Scheduled

A prelude to the observance of Purple Heart week will be Purple Heart tag day to be held on Saturday, February 17, Leib disclosed.

On this day replicas of the Purple Heart will be offered to the public in return for voluntary donations and, Leib explained, the tag sale is being held on Saturday so that the replicas can be worn by patrons throughout the observance of Purple Heart week.

No program is planned for Sunday, February 18, but on Monday the ceremony at the Maryland theater is scheduled, with the presentation of the Purple Heart medals to the five veterans of the First World War to be made by Lt. Col. John C. Golden, who returned home Sunday on leave after fighting in France and Germany while serving with Gen. George Patton's Third army forces.

To Get Medals

Veterans who will receive the medals were announced by Leib as J. C. Davis, Oakland, commander of Proctor Killow Post, No. 71, American Legion, at Oakland; J. Friend, Bangor, Md.; Ernest Gortner, Oakland; Martin Schenck, 24 Greene street, and John W. Helmick, of Kitzmiller.

Formal opening of the Purple Heart Center will take place at a dinner Wednesday, February 21, with officers of the different veterans organizations and service clubs as well as city officials invite to attend.

Leib said Mountain Chapter recently purchased the tavern from Hugh Strachan, Celanese policeman, who operated it for about two years. The local organization has applied for a liquor license and plans to occupy the new home on February 15, Leib added.

On February 21, the history of the Purple Heart will be broadcast over radio station WTPO, and on the following day, Washington's birthday, a history of the Purple Heart will be outlined to students at Fort Hill and Alamy high schools. This program, Leib said, was made possible through the co-operation of Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and Victor D. Halsey and Ralph R. Webster, principals of Fort Hill and Alamy high schools.

Dinner and Dance Planned

A second radio program in connection with the observance of Purple Heart week will be broadcast over the local radio station, February 23 and the dinner and dance open to the public will be held at the Queen City hotel on February 24 to conclude the week's activities.

Scheduled to speak briefly at the dinner are Harold M. Hamilton, Lancaster, Pa., national commander of the Purple Heart, and Lt. Col. Everett L. Cook, commanding officer of Newton D. Baker General Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va. The latter is expected to discuss the need for more nurses to serve in military hospitals at home and overseas but last night had not indicated whether or not he will be able to attend the affair here.

During Purple Heart week, the Purple Heart song, "We Are the Purple Heart," will be played between shows at city theaters. The recording was made by a New York choir and also bears brief remarks by Hamilton, the national commander.

Plan National Observance

Last year Purple Heart week was observed only in Cumberland, but Mountain Chapter at the time conceived the idea of having a statewide observance and Leib said the suggestion subsequently was approved and adopted by the Maryland department and added that an effort will be made to have Purple Heart week observed on a national scale.

Leib said he has received a letter from Gov. O'Connor stating that he will proclaim the week of February 18 as Purple Heart week. The governor's letter added that a copy of the proclamation will be sent to Leib.

At the present time Mountain Chapter has sixty-six paid members, Leib revealed, pointing out that there is a potential membership in Cumberland of 450 persons and a potential membership in Allegany county of 1,200 persons.

Three County 4-H Youths Win Bonds For Conservation

Six Prizes Are Offered in State in National Contest

Three Allegany county 4-H club members won half of the six prizes offered in Maryland by the Firestone Rubber Company in its national 4-H soil conservation contest in 1944. Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, announced yesterday.

Steger said the youths who won the prizes, a $50 war bond each, are Stanley Weimer, Mt. Savage; Royce Johnson, Willow Brook road; and Robert Heavener, Union Grove.

Under the guidance of the soil conservation service, Weimer constructed a fish pond to raise fish, and instituted terracing, strip cropping and drainage practices.

Both Johnson and Heavener concentrated primarily on pasture improvement as well as practicing other soil conservation methods.

Four Youths Compete

Four county 4-H club members competed in the state contest and submitted papers to University of Maryland instructors who judged them for merit.

Each contestant was required to make drawings of a farm, one showing the farm as it is and a second showing improvements carrying out soil conservation practices as well as better farm management suggestions and any other progressive plans.

As a second step, the contestants were required to carry out certain soil conservation practices such as terracing and contour or strip farming.

4-H Activities Included

Forty points were allowed for the two maps, forty points for conservation practices instituted and the remaining twenty points were based on 4-H club activities.

The three Allegany county youths lost out in the sectional contest, however, when a Harford county 4-H youth won a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago in December.

Last year was the first year the contest was sponsored but Steger said it probably will be held again this year and may become an annual event.

Hold Conservation Programs

At the present time, the soil conservation service under the direction of Robert Laramy, assistant conservationist, and Martin Gordon, conservation technician, is conducting programs at 4-H club meetings in the county with a view toward increasing interest among 4-H members in conservation.

Included on such programs is a technicolor movie, "Years to Come," showing conservation ideas practiced on a York county, Pa., farm. Other topics include pasture improvement, woodland management and strip cropping.

Extension Course To Be Given Here

An extension course in psychology, which will carry college credit, will be given in Memorial hospital to graduate nurses of Memorial and Allegany hospitals and the health department, according to an announcement made by Miss Lillian Compton, acting president of Frostburg State Teachers college.

The course, which will begin Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m., will be held regularly each Thursday from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., for fifteen weeks, and will be taught by Dr. Martin E. Hamrick, A. B., West Virginia Wesleyan college, who received his M. A. from West Virginia university and his Ph. D. from the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Hamrick is a member of the faculty of State Teachers college.

Those interested in taking the course are asked to register at Memorial hospital tomorrow evening.

On Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:45 o'clock, a course in general psychology will be offered in the board of education office, on Washington street, provided there is sufficient interest. This course is being offered by request for those who cannot attend an evening class. The instructor will meet with the group Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

Local Hospitals Serving Community Well, Wright Tells Rotary Members

Despite wartime exactions, the two local hospitals are serving the community well, in fact better than those in places of equal size, Benjamin Wright, Memorial hospital superintendent, told Rotarians yesterday, at their weekly luncheon at the Central Y.M.C.A.

Because of his first-hand knowledge of the service and conditions at Memorial hospital, and because he was making a membership classification talk, Wright gave particular attention to Memorial hospital but he said the situation was virtually the same at Allegany hospital.

Memorial is caring for some 200 patients, providing around 60,000 days of patient care yearly. In the last year the clinic took care of 9,900 and 669 babies were born. Nursing and medical care is good, considering conditions, as the result of plans laid several years back, particularly in the recruiting of student nurses. There are now some 130 student nurses, and a nurse for each four patients at Memorial hospital, and a nurse for each three patients at Allegany hospital.

Plans were announced for the Institute of International Understanding, embracing a series of four addresses by noted speakers, which will be given under Rotary auspices this and next month at Allegany high school auditorium, the first being scheduled for February 16. Admission is to be free.

Guests at the luncheon included John W. Shea, of Memorial hospital; J. Stanley Espey, Frostburg Rotarian, and James Grumell, Cumberland.

Announcement has been made that the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, which is attended annually by several high schools in Allegany county, has cancelled its twenty-first annual convention scheduled for March 22-24 at Columbia university in New York. The association will hold a "convention by mail" in the form of a book covering highlights of speeches that would have been given at the meeting.

Benjamin E. Hess, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hess, 23 Bedford street, scheduled to leave for service with the navy last week, lacked parental consent and did not leave with the group, his parents said.

Persons planning to send Easter packages to servicemen overseas must present a written request from the soldier to whom the parcel is addressed before it will be accepted for mailing, Maurice E. Robinette, superintendent of mails, said yesterday. There is no official deadline for the mailing of such packages.

Aged Woman Files Suit for Divorce From LaVale Man

Christopher Weires Accused of Knocking Wife Down Steps

Christopher Weires, LaVale, sued for partial divorce by his wife, Mrs. Sarah W. Weires, aged patient at Crump's nursing home, 761 Fayette street, in a cross-bill to his action for an absolute divorce, was ordered in circuit court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster to pay his wife temporary alimony of $30 weekly, a bill for her care and medicine as well as suffering painful and storage bill he allegedly incurred as well as the fee for her attorney.

The couple were married on Christmas day 1936 and Weires in his suit, filed January 25, accused Mrs. Weires of deserting him on January 10, 1941, without just cause.

In Mrs. Weires's answer, however, she denied she deserted her husband September 10 without just reason and added that they lived together until September 11, 1944.

Broke Collarbone

Mrs. Weires, who is past 70 years of age, charged that in September 11, her husband knocked her down the porch steps of their home and that she broke her collar bone and arm as well as suffering painful and permanent injuries to her back and other parts of her body.

As a result, Mrs. Weires asserted, she was hospitalized for more than four months and then entered the nursing home where she is in an infirmed condition and in need of constant medical and nursing care.

While she was a patient in the hospital, Mrs. Weires declared, her husband without her authority or consent removed the furnishings from their home and stored them in a Cumberland warehouse. On his own account, Weires said, he refused to pay them, his wife charged, with the result that the warehouseman is threatening to sell the goods to satisfy the charges. She added that her husband also refuses to pay her maintenance expenses at the nursing home and said that as of January 31 the cost amounted to $59.10.

Estimates Husband's Wealth

Mrs. Weires said she is advised her husband is a man of considerable means and she estimated his wealth at between $50,000 and $100,000. She asserted that he owns six houses on Valley street in Cumberland, 200 lots of land in LaVale and other real and personal property. Mrs. Weires added that her only income consists of the rental from two houses she owns and pointed out the gross rental is $60 monthly while the net income after payment of taxes, repairs and insurance is about $30 monthly.

Wm. A. Gunter represents Mrs. Weires, while Clarence Shutter is attorney for Weires.

Three Cumberland Airmen Quartered At Nazi POW Camp

Lts. Loughrie, Coberly and Lewis Meet at Sagan, Germany

Letters written in October and November by Lt. David H. R. Loughrie from a prisoner of war camp in Sagan, Germany, were received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Loughrie, Baltimore.

Lt. Loughrie, co-pilot of a Liberator bomber, who fell into the hands of the Germans after being knocked out of the skies in a raid on Germany July 7, 1944, reports that his health is excellent, that he reads on the average of four books a week and gets his exercise playing football. He says he craves candy and suggests that it be sent whenever a package is mailed to him.

The son of United States Deputy Marshal Loughrie mentions the fact that several other Cumberland boys are quartered in the same prison camp—Stalag Luft III, Germany. They are Lt. Joseph Lewis, son of Mr. Bernard P. Lewis, 840 Gephart drive, bomber navigator, who was captured by the Nazis after a raid on enemy territory March 19, 1944, and Lt. Jay C. Coberly, husband of Mrs. Lucille Rippetto Coberly, 123 North Centre street, bombardier on a Flying Fortress, who was shot down over Schweinfurt, Germany, October 14, 1943.

One of the letters received from Lt. Loughrie was dated October 26 and the other two were written November 12, the local co-pilot's twenty-third birthday, as a special greeting to his mother. He stated that his twenty-third birthday was a far cry from birthdays which he observed at home in the past.

Sagan, where the POW camp is located, is south of the Oder river in Silesia, fifty miles west of the Polish border, where the Russian army has reached in its present drive toward Germany. The camp is fifty miles from Breslau and the same distance from Dresden.
